

Education, Skills and International Cooperation: Comparative and Historical Perspectives : Comparative Education Research Centre (CERC) and Springer, ISBN 978-988-14241-7-4. November 2018; 381 pages; US$38

“This book highlights some of Kenneth King’s diverse contributions to international and comparative education, African studies and development studies over more than four decades. From his pioneering work on the first educational commissions to Africa, through his research on skills training in the informal sector, and on to his critical analysis of education analysis in development agencies, this book makes influential materials available in one place.”

Kenneth King was the Associate Director of the Education Programme of the Social Sciences Division in the 1970s. Director of the Centre of African Studies and Professor of International and Comparative Education at the University of Edinburgh till September 2005. He is now Emeritus Professor in the School of Education and also of Social and Political Sciences.